Art Unit: 2882

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 4-13, 16-20, 26-33, 35-50 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Japanese patent 5-288696 in view of Miyake et al (6504896). The Japanese patent teaches an x-ray lithography apparatus comprising synchrotron x-ray source 50, x-ray mirror 2 whose reflective surface may become dirty and means 10 for measuring the flow of photoelectrons released by the mirror surface as an indication of accumulated dirt. The Japanese patent does not illustrate a complete lithography system, and it would have been obvious to employ its dirt sensing means in any common lithograph (since that is its function) such as that taught by Miyake which includes x-ray source 1, integrator 5, mask 7, projection system 8 and mask 9.

Claims 2, 3, 14, 15 and 34 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 21-25 are allowed.
